
Charleston, Wasatch Co., Utah

This map shows some of the points of interest to most Bagleys in the Heber Valley and before the building of the Deer Creek Dam.

Another little town, Thackery, was in the canyon along the river.

Charles Decker and Faramour Little brought the first mowing machine into Charleston, which was purchased by William Henry Bagley, about 1867. Prior to this time he mowed with a scythe.

There were two dairies named Clover Leaf, one on the town site and one down on the river that was owned by Bagleys. It spread to one of the first dairies in Salt Lake City, too.

New Brunswick where Julia Ann Grant and Edward Bagley came from.
